

Brief of Work

The poem written by Kate Rogers aims to inspire readers and promote positive values, such as open-mindedness, compassion, inquisitiveness, diligence and courage. I have used the “sky blue” colour as the base colour to express the out-of-sight feeling of the speaker. The “Exit” door under the banyan tree in my artwork is for the people to understand the beginning and the ending of her journey. The banyan trees symbolise the speaker’s love for nature and reflects her steady mind while walking under the tree. Everything around her carries a meaning which I have drawn carefully in this piece of art. The traffic lights, stinky rubbish, fallen leaves show a path of discovery for the speaker.

Even though the speaker has a language barrier, she didn’t give up. This poem suggests that human beings can still communicate with each other without the use of any language.
