

Brief of Work

In my artwork, I mainly want to express the affection between the speaker and her grandmother. The speaker and her grandmother are able to communicate without a hitch, although they speak different languages. I want to show not only the relationship between them, but also the strong power of her grandmother. The speaker's grandmother has eroded gums and no teeth. Eating is a painful part of her life, as she suffers pain while chewing. However, she never gives up. She embraces the difficulties in life by cutting food into small pieces tirelessly. Besides, the speaker's grandmother also believes that her Hakka will be understood by others, if she speaks slowly enough. Thus, she has never given up her language! In the end, the speaker's grandmother handed down her scissors, which symbolise the family legacy and love, to her granddaughter.
