

Brief of Work

Through my artwork, I would like to express that people these days should learn about the history of rice with soy sauce.

Rice with soy sauce used to be a significant dish in Hong Kong during the post-war period.

It had been the staple dish to satisfy refugees' hunger. Although it is less popular these days, its past contribution should not be forgotten.

The flavour of rice with soy sauce is more than how it tastes. It represents the taste of memory, home and the bonds between people.
