

Brief of Work

The poem captures the scene of Central in Hong Kong in the 70s. Old things mentioned in the poem, such as workers in amah suits carrying things and people riding bicycles to deliver kerosene, are depicted in the artwork. I used watercolour in this painting to create a soft tone and give the scene an aged appearance, thereby expressing a nostalgia for the Hong Kong in the 70s.