The ocean's rainbow

In the depths inside a dark blank sea, where shades of the sun never shone.
On a sudden day, from left to right,
came a swarm of colours, vibrant and bright.

Flooding piles of 'jello' flopped on top,
from red, yellow, green, and then blue.
As the little umbrellas covered each other,
from the cooling tone to the warming hue.

Opening their lids, then closing again.
Arm in arm, flowing inside their endless night.
Splatters of life inside the window,
with strokes of spring spiraling below.

Together they make the spectacle – The ocean's rainbow.
