

Selected Value: Unity and Commitment

United in the Cold

In icy realms where the cold winds blow,
a gathering of penguins, a sight to behold.
United they waddle, in tuxedos of black,
with hearts full of courage, they never look back.

Through storms and through trials, they stand side by side.
In the face of the tempest, they take it in stride.

With commitment unwavering, they nurture their young.
In the dance of survival, their song is well sung.

On glistening ice, they slide and they play.
In a world of white wonder, they brighten the day.

With flippers outstretched, they leap into the sea –
a testament to unity, wild and free.

As the sun dips low, painting skies with gold,
their bonds grow stronger, a story retold.

In the heart of the cold, where the wild winds roam,
these steadfast companions have found their true home.

So here's to the penguins, in their frosty domain,
united in purpose, through joy and through pain.

With commitment as deep as the ocean's embrace,
they remind us of love in this vast, frozen space.