

Selected Value: Empathy

Standing in Solidarity

When the sun dips low and the sky turns grey,
When the age old glaciers melt and climate change whirs sea levels to sway,
They lean on each other, come what may,

Whether a mother loses her child to a vicious predator, or the harsh winters and voracious fishers deplete their food sources,
In the face of such despair, they still find a chance, with an empathetic embrace, or a solidarised stance.

Here in their solace, with their gentle souls and warm hearts, the penguins continue to embrace empathy as they stand in solidarity.
