

Diligence

Soldiers in Black and White

In a sea of black and white
Four diligent soldiers stand tight
Stationed with their heads held high
They keep watch as time goes by

For if things get any stranger
They will warn the colony of danger
Focused, unmoving despite the mob
As staying diligent is their job

Perhaps one day they will relax
Without imminent fear of attack
And spend time with family around
But for now, they stand their ground.