The Shark That Swims Alone

In the deep green sea, sunlight shines through the water,
An army of fish swims together,
Moving side by side, camaraderie and pride.

But one shark takes a different path.
A lone soldier by himself.
It's darker and quieter down there.
He has no friends or a commander.
Only his own strength keeps him going.

There's no applause.
The sea is hard, the journey is long.
But he never gives up.
He perseveres through his own course.
