The Tenacity of Pandas

Deep in the bamboo woods so green.
Lives a black-and-white elf, seldom seen.
Chubby and round, a plump little sprite.
With eyes dark as night, shining bright.
Face patched in white and black so bold, animals mock its story told.

They laugh at the body, dull and slow,
jeer at the face like a clown in a show.

But after millions of years, it stands tall,
resisting disasters, answering the call.
Black eyes face mockery, fierce and true,
chubby frame fights on, never through.
That black-and-white face reveals its might,
a character strong in the endless fight.
